香港教育中心商會副主席任偉豪指出：「特首昨日強烈建議商界仿效政府強制員工接種疫苗，但商界普遍表示沒有必要。實際上，有些僱員擔心接種疫苗會影響健康，而且有些人士已由醫生證明並不適合接種疫苗。如果某公司強制這類僱員去做自費檢測，必然令他們流失到其他沒有強制接種要求的公司，可能導致這些公司人手不足而不能正常運作。如果由公司去津貼檢測費用，又會導致成本上升，不利營運，阻礙疫後的經濟復甦。」

Vice Chairman of The Hong Kong Chamber of Education Centres Yam Wai Ho observed, “The Chief Executive yesterday strongly suggested private companies to follow the government’s lead in requiring their staff to vaccinate. The private companies generally considered no such need. In fact, some employees are worried that vaccination would affect their health, and some have been certified by doctors as unfit for vaccination. If a company forces these employees to undergo testing at their own expense, it will inevitably lose them to other companies that do not require compulsory vaccination, causing manpower shortage which affects normal operations. If these companies subsidise the test fees, it would increase costs and hinders operations, thereby slowing down economic recovery after the epidemic.”
